violence and seeing the club's exploitation of the innocent has brought his traumatic past roaring back and there's only one cure to see the wife he left behind. Blythe Daniels thought she'd never see Viktor again after he murdered her stepfather and left without a word. She rebuilt her life without him, becoming a personal trainer and physical therapist, becoming strong enough for others to lean on. But when Viktor comes back to sea haven, he'll make Blythe question everything she thought she knew about good and evil and the dark desires of the heart. Penny Briggs is a perfectly ordinary woman until her life takes a left turn at Albuquerque. I thought my marriage would be a fairy tale. Instead, I've put a thousand miles between me and my broken dream, starting over with a temp job in Albuquerque. Prop shopping for a TV production takes my mind off my troubles until I buy an old pair of glasses. No one on the set can wear them. Curious, I look through the lenses myself, and they show me a wild vision of a lonely desert canyon I've never seen before. A friend directs me, and my weird glasses to her cousin, a brujo, a male witch who specializes in weird. He's also the most spectacularly handsome man I've ever seen, with black hair, dark eyes, and a flashing smile so dazzling I almost miss his casual remark that my magic is powerful. Magic what? Magic, I'm just an ordinary woman from an ordinary family. Yet as the two of us explore the mystery surrounding those supernatural glasses and give in to our growing attraction, I discover a past I knew nothing about, and that there's a dangerous reason it's been hidden from me all these years. What makes In Another Life work is the strong emotional core, the sense of place, the historical suspense, and the characterization that makes the reader root for Lia. Seattle Times, steeped in the rich history and romantic landscape of the Languedoc region in another life is a story of love that conquers time and the lost loves that haunt us all. Historian Lia Carrer has finally returned to southern France, determined to rebuild her life after the death of her husband. But instead of finding solace in the region's quiet hills and medieval ruins, she falls in love with Raoul, a man whose very existence challenges everything she knows about life and about her husband's death. As Raoul reveals the story of his past to Lia, she becomes entangled in the echoes of an ancient murder, resulting in a haunting and suspenseful journey that reminds Lia that the dead may not be as far from us as we think. Steeped in the rich history and romantic landscape of rural France, in another life is a story of love that conquers time and the lost loves that haunt us all. The holiday meets the parent trap in this clever comedic whirlwind brimming with romance and just a touch of magic. Estranged sisters Jamie and Siri are quarter-life crisis-ing hard with adulthood breathing down their necks. Suddenly, their promising career aspirations feel out of reach, and romance completely implausible. After thirteen years apart on opposite coasts, the sisters run into each other at a nature retreat, desperate for a change of pace. They decide to go home in each other's stead to see how the other half lives. It doesn't take long to realize swapping lives might be more than they bargained for. Turns out, pretending to be a sister you hardly know can really complicate your previously non-existent love life. Navigating their new surroundings proves to be a precarious task, but turns out there's no better way to learn about yourself than by trying to live as someone else. Marry for convenience. Love in leisure. Almost six years have passed since the dead-geddon, and nearly five since the TV's went dark, having survived numerous untold horrors in a dead land. Christine Jordan is at the end of her rope, stranded in a blinding snowstorm in an SUV on an unknown highway, who knows where and with only one companion left. Her biggest worry at the moment is not about survival with the shock of losing her other companions still fresh and no food at hand. Christine knows she's going to die. The zombie slayers Evincar and his compatriot Misty patrol the area around an old frontier store where the people from the nearby community of Haven are salvaging goods on a cold winter day. A seemingly routine trip will lead to a life-changing encounter for all, and no one's world will ever be the same again. Two lovers are bound by the very desires that could destroy them.
